Hi Debi,

I hope you've had a great week. It's been a busy one for me. Please see below for the action items our team has decided to work for regarding the forward progress of our project. We decided the delegation of specific tasks will help maintain a more manageable timeline for the project.

As such, we've delegated the database work, class creation work, and website research and creation work.

James is currently responsible for the research ideas for the website and once we decide upon a best way forward, will begin working on it.

Peter is currently responsible for the database management and creation.

Andres and myself will be working mostly on class creation and the consolidation of the many scrapers into one class.

Thank you and please let me know if you have any questions,
Eric
